This notice provides details of the incident, our response, and steps individuals may take to better protect against the possible misuse of their information should they feel it appropriate to do so.

What Happened? In September 2023, Eisner became aware of suspicious activity with respect to a limited set of information. We thoroughly investigated the nature and scope of the incident and subsequently determined that there was unauthorized access to certain files that occurred between September 4, 2023 and September 9, 2023, that such files were acquired by an unknown actor, and that access by the unknown actor was limited solely to those files. In response, we conducted a detailed review of the files determined to be at risk by this incident to identify the type of information stored therein and to whom that information related. In February 2025, we completed this review and determined that information related to you was contained in the files determined to be at risk. Our continuing investigation into this incident is now concluded. Through this review, we determined that certain information relating to individuals was included in the impacted data set. While we have seen no evidence of any actual or attempted misuse of information, we are notifying individuals in an abundance of caution and to make individuals aware of the incident.

Steps You Can Take to Help Protect Your Personal Information

Monitor Your Accounts

We advise you to remain vigilant against identity theft and fraud by reviewing all account statements and monitoring free credit reports. If you discover or suspect fraudulent activity involving your account, credit or debit card, we encourage you to promptly contact the issuing bank or relevant financial institution. The number to call for assistance is usually on the back of the card.

Under U.S. law, a consumer is entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. To order your free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. You may also directly contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below to request a free copy of your credit report.

Consumers have the right to place an initial or extended "fraud alert" on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a one-year alert that is placed on a consumer's credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer's credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer's identity before extending new credit. If you are a victim of identity theft, you are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should you wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any one of the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, consumers have the right to place a "credit freeze" on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without the consumer's express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. However, you should be aware that using a credit freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in your credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application you make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, you cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on your credit report. To request a security freeze, you will need to provide the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Addresses for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (state driver's license or ID card, etc.); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft if you are a victim of identity theft.

Should you wish to place a credit freeze, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:
